The Proprietors of this Journal are pleased to announce that they have, at a very considerable outlay, made arrangements with H. RIDER HAGGARD—the Author of the most popular and dramatic Stories of our day—by which their Readers will enjoy precedent perusal of a new and unpublished manuscript Story from his pen.

The Title of RIDER HAGGARD'S New Story is

COLONEL QUARITCH, V.C.

And the Opening Chapters appeared in THE "HONGKONG DAILY PRESS" OF SATURDAY, 21ST JULY.

In this dramatic work, the author of "She" makes a new departure. Instead of placing his characters in lands remote from civilisation and subjecting them to influences of the most remarkable and unprecedented nature, he has here written an English treasure story of the present day. The hero is a soldier in the British army, a wearer of the Victoria Cross, who returns home from the recent operations in the Soudan, to exchange the perils and privations of warfare in the desert for a series of sensational incidents among pleasant English landscapes, and the ultimate reward of an ancestral home brightened by the beauty of a comely bride. The plot is well contrived, there is strong individualisation in the characters; the scenes are depicted with clearness and a warm glow of local colour, while the main incidents are worked out with power. Not even in "King Solomon's Mines," when entrance is effected into the mysterious chamber, is the thrill greater than when Colonel Quaritch unearths the treasure, hidden away from Cromwell's soldiers, the recovery of which saves an ancient house from ruin.

HONGKONG, AUGUST 24TH, 1888.

A CORRESPONDENT in another column draws attention to the position of Kowloon, to the developments taking place there, and the necessity of action on the part of the Government in order to allow the place to make proper headway. As our correspondent very rightly remarks, the mistakes which have been made in the laying out of Victoria—which, indeed, can hardly be said to have ever been laid out, but to have grown without the observance of any rules—should be avoided from the outset in the new settlement at Kowloon. One of the first requirements is that a proper drainage scheme should be worked out and decided upon, one adapted to the requirements of a fair sized town. A railway from Canton having its terminus at some point in the peninsula is a certainty of the future; how long it may be delayed it is impossible to say, but there are indications that warrant an expectation that the work will be commenced before many years have passed. When that work is accomplished, Kowloon will grow rapidly, and it is not improbable that some of the business houses may be transferred to that side. But long before that comes to pass it is safe to predict that there will be a large development of the district as a residential centre. Now that long leases can be had building has been commenced in earnest; there are several houses going up at present, and very shortly, we hear, about a dozen others are to be commenced, making a sensible addition to the number already existing. This is only a commencement; the other lotholders will speedily follow the example of the originators of the movement. With the great pressure on the house accommodation in Victoria and at the Peak, which is becoming greater every day, there can be no doubt that houses at Kowloon will be occupied as rapidly as they can be built. Hitherto the defective ferry communication has been a drawback to the place, but this will be remedied almost immediately, as the new Ferry Company intend commencing operations next month and will run launches regularly up to midnight. Residents on the other side will therefore not be cut off from the social life of the community on this side to the extent that has hitherto been the case.

Amongst the improvements advocated by our correspondent are drainage, already alluded to, lighting, water supply, and a public recreation ground. With reference to lighting, the Gas Company purchased a piece of ground at Yaumati some twelve months or more ago, in anticipation of the demand they foresaw must arise for their illuminant. If it were decided to light the roads by gas, the Company would doubtless be willing to set up their works at once, and in a few years a large private consumption may be confidently reckoned on. A sufficient water supply could be secured at small cost from the hills at the back of the peninsula. For these improvements the residents are willing to be taxed at the same rate as residents in Victoria. At present the amount that would thus be collected would be far short of the amount required to maintain the services, but in opening up new districts it should be the object of the Government to attract population by providing the necessary conveniences somewhat in advance of the growth of the community; and that the outlay would ultimately be repaid out of the rates there can be no doubt. It would be unreasonable to expect all the improvements asked for to be carried out immediately, but we think the property owners and residents of Kowloon are not unreasonable in asking that their claims to attention in the directions indicated should be recognised, and that there should be no unnecessary delay in commencing a system of drainage, which is at least as necessary at Kowloon as at the Peak—much more so, we should say, having regard to the physical features of the district.

The suggestion of our correspondent with reference to a recreation ground is good in itself, but whether it is desirable to devote one of the most valuable pieces of ground in the whole peninsula to this purpose is another question. If we are not mistaken, a piece of ground has been reserved for this purpose, and is now used by the Afforestation Department as a nursery, but it is a considerable distance from the Point, and even if laid out as a garden or pleasure ground would, it is said, be little used on that account. Tsimtashatsui Bay, if reclaimed, would undoubtedly form an excellent situation for a recreation ground, and it would be appreciated by visitors from Hongkong as well as by residents on the Kowloon side. The Government, however, would probably look to the sale of the land to defray the cost of reclamation; it would form most desirable sites for dwellings, and would no doubt be warmly competed for if put up to auction. If the Government can be persuaded to take an opposite view, and devote the land to the purposes of a pleasure garden, it would be a public boon, in face of which we think few would be inclined to complain of the loss of the amount that might be realised by its sale. The cost of reclamation would not be great; the bay is shallow, and as the War Department have exchanged their piece of ground above Messrs. Blackhead and Co.'s lot (formerly reserved for a fort) for an addition to their principal lot, the hill there, which is close by the Bay, could be cut away and the material used for filling in. Whatever decision may be come to on this point, however, we trust the Kowloon lotholders will receive due encouragement from the Government in their efforts to open up that district and to supply the very pressing demand which exists in the colony for house accommodation at moderate rentals.

Dr. Doberck announces that another typhoon is approaching Luzon.

A snake about eighteen inches long was killed yesterday afternoon near the Clock Tower. It had fallen from one of the trees there.

The Pacific Mail steamer City of New York will call at Yokohama and Honolulu on her next trip to San Francisco, and her hour of departure has been altered from 3 to 1 p.m. on Wednesday next.

The master of the shop in Hollywood-road, which, it is alleged, was burnt down wilfully last Sunday, was arrested yesterday by a warrant, on the information of the Straits Insurance Company. The case will be commenced to-day.

The Hamilton Musical Bouquet Company, who visited this colony a few months ago and afterwards made a tour in China and Japan, have disappeared rather suddenly from Nagasaki, leaving behind them Miss Brandt, on whose behalf, we note from the local papers, a benefit concert was to be given by amateurs.

The Singapore Free Press says the marriage between Major Fred. J. W. Davies, Royal Munster Fusiliers, Assistant Military Secretary China and the Straits Settlements, and Minnie, adopted daughter of the late Mr. William Burnley Hume of Winterton, Great Yarmouth, took place at Winterton on the 14th inst.

A story which illustrates the anomalies of the Imperial postage service in a very striking manner is being circulated. As is well known, the postal rate for newspapers to India is much higher in England than in France, and it occurred to a large firm who send great quantities of newspapers every week to the East that they would save money by sending their papers in bulk to Calais and having them stamped and posted there. The scheme was tried, and the firm is saving about £1,000 a year by it.

Another addition to the already large fleet of steamers owned by Messrs. Bun Hin and Co. arrived at Singapore on the 15th instant, named the steamer Cheang Cheg, which has brought out a cargo of over two thousand tons of coal for the M. M. Co. The Cheang Chew, formerly the St. Louis, was built at Birkenhead in 1870 by Messrs. C. R. Clover and Co. and is of 1213 tons nett and 1862 gross tonnage. Her engines of 180 h. p., are by Messrs. C. D. Holmes and Co., of Hull. The Cheang Chew is intended for the Chinese coolie trade, in which Messrs. Bun Hin & Co. have already several steamers engaged. —Free Press.

The Governor-General has directed that all future contracts for military supplies in the Philippines must contain a clause expressly stipulating that the articles furnished should be of local manufacture. The Comercio, a free trade journal, praises the measure on the ground of the need for encouraging industry in the islands. Now that, under the new stipulation, cloth for the army must be of local make, the cultivation and manufacture of cotton in the islands will receive a much needed impetus, thereby giving employment to many people who now find it hard to make a living in these lines of industry.—Straits Times.

At three o'clock yesterday morning, a Chinese police constable was on duty in Queen's-road West, when he noticed a fire on the staircase of house No. 149. He went upstairs and discovered a pan containing two catties of kerosine between the ground and first floors. On closer examination he discovered that four of the steps had been thoroughly soaked with kerosine oil, proving conclusively that a big fire had been planned. The house, which is of three storeys, consists of a clothes dealer's establishment on the ground floor, a boarding house on the first, and a family house on the second floor. A part of the property was insured. The police are taking active steps to discover the offender.

The popularity of the Hongkong Rifle Association is still on the increase. We understand a silver cup of the value of $100 has been offered to the Association, provided that it be competed for under the same rules, regulations, and distances as the Queen's Prize at Wimbledon, which will, no doubt, encourage the lay range shooting, and we believe that already this offer has induced many to practice at 800 and 900 yards with very good results. If accepted, which it doubtless will be, the competition will probably take place early in November, when the Association propose holding their sixth prize meeting at Kowloon, in a somewhat similar manner to that held at Easter, which proved so great a success.

The following is from a Macao letter under date of the 22nd inst.:—A seaman on board the transport India died to-day, and it is said that his body was brought to Macao, but the Governor ordered that it be buried at Taipa. Captain Barros, who, according to the very excellent authority of certain quarters had succumbed on Sunday to the prevalent disease, is still alive and improving. The India will shortly leave Macao for home, but will take no passengers. The Jornal das Colonias received by the last mail says that the home Government has declared Macao as an infected port since May last! Mr. Ho Ling-wong, son of the late wealthy merchant Ho Lo-kwai, issued notices to the effect that free medical attendance and medicine can be had at one of the houses in the Rua do Campo. This benevolent act of Mr. Ho cannot be too highly praised, considering the number of poor that will be thus benefited.

Two more railway engineers have passed through Singapore for Bangkok to join the party under Mr. W. J. Galway, now engaged in the preliminary surveys in connection with Sir Andrew Clarke's great Siam railway scheme. These gentlemen are Mr. John Hutchinson, C.E., and Mr. J. Gervais Skipton, C.E., who arrived on the 12th instant per Blue-funnel steamer Deucalion, and left on the 15th for Bangkok in the steamer Hecate. This accession brings the total up to nine, the engineering staff already on the spot being: Messrs. Galway (chief engineer) H. Gittens, E. W. Wilkinson, F. H. Smilee, S. H. Angier, F. H. Landon, and R. Roberts. All of these gentlemen are employed by the contractors, Messrs. Punchard, Mc'aggart, Lowther & Co., one of the members of which firm, Mr. Punchard, accompanied Sir Andrew on his late visit to Bangkok, as also did the last named engineers, Messrs. Landon and Roberts. Every one of the staff is highly qualified and experienced.—Free Press.

THE SANITARY BOARD.

The Sanitary Board met yesterday afternoon. There were present:—Dr. Ayres, President; Hon. W. M. Deane, Vice-President; Mr. J. J. Francis, Q.C., Hon. J. M. Price, Surveyor-General; Mr. J. H. Stewart-Lockhart, Registrar-General; Hon. Wong Shing, Dr. Ho Kai, Dr. Cantlie, Mr. N. J. Ede, and Mr. W. E. Crow, Secretary.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The PRESIDENT said the Committee appointed had considered the question of vaccination alluded to at the last meeting, and their opinions on the subject were now being prepared and would be circulated in a day or two.

The SECRETARY said a letter had been received in reply to the one addressed last week to the Governor asking if any steps had been taken with regard to a possible recurrence of the small-pox epidemic in the approaching cool season. The letter had already been circulated amongst members.

At the request of Mr. Francis, the letter was read to the Board. The letter is as follows:—

Colonial Secretary's Office,
15th August, 1888.

SIR,—In reply to your letter of the 13th August and its enclosure enquiring what steps, if any, are being taken to mesh a possible epidemic of small-pox in the approaching cool season, I am directed by his Excellency the Governor to say that when the Board suggests the steps which should in its opinion be taken for that purpose his Excellency will give the subject immediate and careful consideration. His Excellency trusts that these suggestions will reach him very shortly.—I have the honour to be, Sir, &c.,

FREDERICK STEWART,
Colonial Secretary.

Mr. FRANCIS said he was not present when it was decided to address a letter on this subject to his Excellency, but it seemed to him that it was a decided impertinence on the part of the Board to ask the Governor what steps he was taking in this matter.

The PRESIDENT said the letter was sent on the decision of the Board. The question as to what steps were being taken was addressed to him at the last meeting by Mr. Ede. He could not give any information on the subject. Only the Government could do that.

Mr. FRANCIS said he thought the Board had no authority to ask what was being done in a matter which was purely a Government concern.

The PRESIDENT said that at the last meeting of the old Sanitary Board suggestions had been sent to the Government as to what in the opinion of the Board should be done in the future as regards an epidemic of small-pox. Perhaps Mr. Francis would like to have those read.

The Secretary then read the letter of the old Board to the Governor which was as follows:—

4th June, 1888.

SIR,—Adverting to previous correspondence on the subject of a recommendation by the Sanitary Board for the favourable consideration of the Government with regard to the establishment in a segregate position of an epidemic or infectious hospital, I have now by direction of the Board to transmit to you the enclosed schedule setting forth such requirements which in the opinion—more especially of the medical members of the Board—such an institution should fulfil in order to be of practical utility; and I am to express the hope that His Excellency might be able at no distant date to give effect to their recommendations and thus remove from the community an acknowledged source of danger. The Board had already under consideration the important point as to whether the proposed structure should be of a permanent or only of a temporary kind, and it was considered that the permanent portion of the building might with advantage be built of brick with a wall surface carefully covered with a smooth and impervious coating of Portland cement plaster, thus enabling the walls to be frequently washed down with disinfecting fluid. The Board desire to lay great stress upon the importance of building a structure on an impervious shell or carcass of Portland cement concrete, also rendered in cement plaster, so as to preclude the possibility of anything soaking into the ground under the building.—I have the honour, &c.,

W. E. CROW, Acting Honorary Secretary.

(Enclosure.)

Requirements which in the opinion of the Board the proposed epidemic hospital should fulfil.

1.—A permanent building made of brick with cement plastered walls, to contain 12 European and 30 Chinese beds, the administrative block and out buildings to be also permanent and to provide accommodation for a resident surgeon and four nurses for the European ward and ten nurses for the Chinese ward, that is, two nurses for every six patients, one for day and one for night duty.

2.—Two concrete platforms on floors and skeleton iron frame on the same, capable of speedy conversion into additional wards for 150 patients and quarters for extra nursing staff.

The above was passed at a full meeting of the Board on the 30th ult.

The PRESIDENT—These are the recommendations which were sent into the Government by the old Board.

Mr. FRANCIS said he should propose that those suggestions be adopted by the present Board. He thought they were as nearly complete as possible, though he noticed that they were confined to one point—that of accommodation for patients.

The PRESIDENT said there were other precautions given in sub-section 19 of the Ordinance for which a committee had been appointed to prepare by-laws.

Mr. EDE seconded Mr. Francis's proposition, but thought that as the Government had asked for suggestions and other points required attention besides accommodation for patients, suggestions on these points should also be sent in.

Mr. FRANCIS asked if there was not a Committee sitting to consider the question of vaccination.

The PRESIDENT said there was.

Mr. FRANCIS thought that possibly this Committee might have some suggestions to make also.

Mr. EDE said he thought there were points mentioned in section 19 which required considering. Suggestions might be sent in on the points mentioned there such as vaccination, the compulsory vaccination and disinfection of houses, &c.

Mr. FRANCIS questioned whether the Board could proceed to make by-laws under Section 19 except in accordance with Part II., that was, after the Governor had issued a proclamation.

The SURVEYOR-GENERAL asked if they had to wait then for an epidemic before putting the by-laws into force.

Mr. FRANCIS said unfortunately that was the way the Ordinance was framed. His own impression was that under sub-section 19 they could not make any by-laws except within the limitation of Part II. He agreed with Mr. Ede that suggestions on other points besides that of accommodation should be sent to the Government. He moved that the letter of the Board of the 4th June and the Colonial Secretary's letter of the 4th August be referred to the Committee now sitting on the vaccination question, and that they be instructed to prepare a complete body of suggestions on all matters connected with small-pox for transmission to the Government, and that Mr. Ede's name be added to that Committee.

The VICE-PRESIDENT seconded, and the motion was carried unanimously.

The PRESIDENT said the next matter before the Board was the application of the conservancy contractor for compensation for extra work in the Peak District. Mr. Crow had enquired into the matter, and thought that $6 per month would be sufficient compensation for the extra work.

The motion of Mr. FRANCIS that the recommendation of the Board for compensation to the amount of $6 be forwarded to the Government was carried.

The Board then went into Committee on the draft estimates for 1889.

On the item for an increase of $252 for the purpose of allowing the three assistant inspectors of nuisances' chair hire all the year round instead of for the five summer months as at present,

Mr. FRANCIS objected to the increase. The men had not more travelling than an ordinary sergeant of police, and the allowance during the summer months was quite sufficient. Such duties as they had to perform would be done, he thought, better without a chair.

The SECRETARY pointed out that the districts the men had to attend to were very large and that they were often called to his office to receive instructions.

On the suggestion of the VICE-PRESIDENT it was agreed to put down the half of $252—$126—as incidental expenses, for the purpose of allowing the men jinrikshs and chair-hire during the winter months when it was necessary.

Mr. EDE pointed out that the allowance for the Superintendent and Secretary who was head of this establishment, was only $3,640, whereas the allowance for the Sanitary Surveyor was $3,000. He thought the Superintendent should be put on an equal footing with the other officer. He moved that the Government be recommended to increase the Superintendent's salary to $3,000 per year.

The SURVEYOR-GENERAL said that the Sanitary Surveyor could hardly be said to be under the Superintendent. He was really their adviser. He was a scientific man, and his salary for his services was calculated on that basis.

Mr. FRANCIS seconded Mr. Ede's motion.

The REGISTRAR-GENERAL said he did not think this was a matter for the Board to deal with. As a Government servant he should prefer not to vote on the motion.

Mr. FRANCIS said he understood it was stated distinctly at their first meeting that there were no Government servants on the Board.

The motion was then put to the meeting and carried nem. con.

The SURVEYOR-GENERAL then moved that the Board go into Committee on the drainage bye-laws.

Mr. FRANCIS asked if any report had been made by the Committee, or if he by-laws had been simply handed in.

The PRESIDENT—They have been simply handed in.

Mr. FRANCIS—As they have been laid on the table for the first time, I move that they stand over till next meeting.

The SURVEYOR-GENERAL reminded the Board that the by-laws were prepared by the Committee and submitted to the consideration of the Board some time ago, and that upon a question raised by Mr. Francis they were postponed for the purpose of obtaining instructions from the Government as to the legal power of the Board to deal with defective and insanitary drains in old buildings. These instructions were in due course received, the reply stating that, subject to certain modifications or amendments, the by-laws they had prepared might apply to defective and insanitary drains in old buildings as well as in new. Thereupon the Board referred the by-laws back to the Committee to be reconsidered. The Committee went carefully through the by-laws again and they carried out the recommendations of the Government. They added one by-law, which was numbered one, and made a few verbal alterations so that the by-laws might be made to apply to insanitary drains in old buildings as well as to drains of new buildings. The Committee now presented these by-laws, and laid them on the table. He presumed his two colleagues had not any other idea except to leave it to the Board to deal with them now as they deemed fit. If the Board thought it desirable that they should now simply be laid on the table, he presumed, although he had not consulted his colleagues, they would agree to that.

The PRESIDENT said there had been considerable addition to the by-laws, and the Board might prefer to have a little more time to look them over.

Dr. HO KAI seconded Mr. Francis's motion.

Mr. FRANCIS said he should not have put forward his proposition, but that it seemed to him that many of the objections against the first draft of by-laws still existed in those before them. The first clause seemed to him to only add to the confusion. He was in favour of making completely separate by-laws for the different existing conditions. The by-laws as they now stood would only give trouble hereafter.

The VICE-PRESIDENT asked if they adjourned consideration till next meeting would Mr. Francis undertake to lay a new set of by-laws before the Board.

Mr. FRANCIS said he would undertake to lay before the Board a separate set of by-laws on each of these subjects by that day fortnight. He saw no difficulty in subdividing the by-law, so that one set would apply to old buildings, one to new buildings, and a third to subsoil drainage. Such a division would be clear, whereas in their present form the by-laws would only lead to trouble. By subdividing them they would necessarily make them a little longer, but it would facilitate the work of the Board and its officers. He undertook to lay such a set of by-laws before the next meeting.

Mr. HUMPHREYS said the question before the meeting was whether they should adjourn the consideration of these by-laws or not. He deprecated anything else being discussed till that was settled. As to Mr. Francis's suggestion, no one had asked him to prepare a set of by-laws for the Board.

Dr. CANTLIE said he thought by adopting Mr. Francis's offer they would be annulling the whole of the work done by these gentlemen on the Committee appointed to prepare these by-laws. He did not think Mr. Francis intended that. He thought he meant that these by-laws should be taken as a text.

Mr. FRANCIS—Certainly.

Dr. CANTLIE said he should certainly object to Mr. Francis drawing up a separate set of by-laws unless those before them were taken as the text.

Mr. FRANCIS's motion of adjournment was then put and carried by 5 to 3.

The Board then adjourned.

ENTERTAINMENT AT THE GARRISON THEATRE.

The last of a series of very interesting lectures and entertainments was given to the troops at the Garrison Theatre on Wednesday night by Police Sergeant Mann and other members of the Hongkong Police Force, and Staff Sergeant Mills and others of the Garrison. The former gave a march by the pipes, sword dances, and strathspey, or Highland Fling, all of which were very admirably rendered and loudly applauded by the large audience. The latter and his assistants gave scientific exercises with the clubs, boxing, &c., which were equally successful. A sword feat by Sergeant Mills was very cleverly performed, in which, after three desperate blows at the same number of pieces of lead, which, by the way, he explained were rather tough, he successfully cut through. In the boxing match between Sergeant Mills and Mr. Thompson both exponents showed great art and skill, and the latter was almost, if not quite a match for the former. The blows given by Mr. Thompson were well aimed, and told unmistakably on the Sergeant's nose and face, whilst the sledge hammer blows of the Sergeant were equally telling on the head and ribs of Mr. Thompson. During the intervals songs were sung by Privates Greaves and Andrews, which served as a very pleasant diversion and were loudly encored. Altogether, it was a most enlivening and interesting entertainment, and was much appreciated by the very crowded house.

At the close the Chaplain, Rev. H. Wonnacott, whose popularity amongst the men is so well known, and who was loudly cheered upon coming forward on the platform, informed the audience that that was the last of the entertainments, and at this time next week he would be on the broad sea, on his way to Canada and England, whither, he was sure, many of them would like to be going. He had been with them only six months, but he could truthfully say it had been to him a very pleasant time, and that when at home he should often think of Hongkong, of the men of the 58th, the Artillery, and the Royal Engineers, amongst whom he had got on so well. Two Sundays in succession had been wet, but he hoped next Sunday would be dry, and that he should see them again at church, when he could say a few words more, before parting from them. He would now, however, wish them good-bye.

At the conclusion of the reverend gentleman's address expression of deep regret for his departure were heard on all hands. Thanks were duly given to the entertainers, and were acknowledged in the usual way. Loud and prolonged cheering was then given by the whole of the men, both in and outside the house for the Chaplain, to which he responded and remarked jocosely that it was usual at the close of such entertainments as this to turn out the gas, which raised another loud shout and more cheers, and there was then a general exit. We can now only add that, as Mr. Wonnacott has gone to a very great deal of trouble in getting up these lectures and entertainments, which have been a perfect success—the thanks of the entire Garrison are due to him, and to those gentlemen who have so kindly assisted him, and that he has the wishes of all for a very safe, pleasant, and successful passage to England.—Communicated.

SUPREME COURT.

23rd August.

IN CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

BEFORE MR. A. J. LEACH, ACTING PUISNE JUDGE.

SENTENCES.

THE ROBBERY FROM ARNHOLD, KARBERG'S GODOWNS.

Hung Atak, Chiu Chan, Chan Chung, and Chan Awan were convicted of receiving eight flasks of quicksilver stolen from Arnhold, Karberg's godowns.

In reply to his Lordship all four prisoners stated they were innocent of the offence of which they had been found guilty.

His Lordship said that doubtless the jury had taken into consideration the defence now put forward. It devolved upon him to pass the sentence which had been fixed by the Acting Chief Justice, who had tried the case, but who was unable to be present. Nothing that the prisoners had said induced him to interfere with that sentence, and he therefore sentenced them to three years' imprisonment with hard labour.

The prisoners received the announcement of their sentence with a most terrific howling. The second prisoner clung to the front of the dock and refused to leave it, still protesting his innocence, and had at last to be forcibly dragged out of the Court by three policemen.

ROBBERY WITH VIOLENCE.

Fang Aman was found guilty of robbery with violence, committed in conjunction with two other men not in custody.

Prisoner stated that the charge against him was a false one, and offered to bring witnesses to prove it so. If his Lordship was determined to punish him he asked that he might be deported.

His Lordship said if he had any evidence to produce as to his innocence he should have called it when he was before the jury. From what he had now said he (his Lordship) saw no reason to mitigate the sentence fixed. He had been found guilty of robbery with violence, together with two other men who were not in custody. Robbery with violence was always punished very severely in this colony, and he should therefore sentence him to be imprisoned for two years with hard labour, and during the first six months of his imprisonment to be once privately whipped on the breech with twenty-five strokes of the rattan.

POLICE COURT.

23rd August.

BEFORE HON. H. E. WODEHOUSE.

ARSON.

Cheng Chi, Choi Kai, and Tong Yung were charged, on remand, with wilfully setting fire to shop No. 86, Hollywood Road, on the 19th inst.

Mr. Stokes appeared, and put in an application to conduct the case on behalf of the Straits Insurance Co.

Mr. Wotton appeared for the defence.

Leung Kan, re-called, said—I awoke at two o'clock on the morning of the 19th instant in consequence of my foot being trodden upon. I did not awake at any other time except at two o'clock and at three. At two o'clock I lay awake for about ten minutes, and during that time I saw the second and third prisoners carry out a basket of rice with which they went down by Sing Wong Street. They came back again, and the second prisoner carried a box out and went in the same direction with it. When I went to sleep I did not see the second defendant return. The third defendant closed the door when the second prisoner brought the box out. I saw nothing of the first defendant during that time, there was a light in the shop. It was a lamp; third defendant had it in his hand. When he returned to the shop the first time it was put on the counter after he came back. It was a common saucer and wick—a Joss lamp. When I first awoke at 2 o'clock it was burning on the counter. It was alight all the time I was awake the first time, till 10 minutes past two. It was still alight when I went to sleep. It was the same lamp that they lighted when I awoke at 3 o'clock. The lamp lighted at 3 o'clock was made of pewter. The shape was different. The crockery lamp was 6 inches high, with a white saucer on top of it. The metal lamp was a tall one used in the Joss shrine. It was not by the light in the shop that I distinguished the faces of second and third defendants. I would not know the books the first prisoner was carrying if I saw them again.

Mr. Stokes—Your Worship, I think I am now entitled to know on what footing I stand in this case, and whether I am to be allowed to prosecute or not.

Mr. Wodehouse—I will first read over the evidence.

Mr. Stokes—If this is the examination in chief, your Worship, I have some questions to ask the witness before you read over his evidence.

Mr. Wodehouse—I will read over my portion of the evidence first.

The evidence was then read.

Mr. Stokes—I would now ask your worship if the Captain Superintendant of Police has any objection to the case being conducted by me, instead of by the Police.

Captain Deane—I have no objection.

Mr. Wodehouse—Then you apply, Mr. Stokes for leave to prosecute on behalf of the Straits Insurance Company?

Mr. Stokes—Well, to put the matter on its proper footing, I, as a solicitor, claim the right to prosecute.

Mr. Wodehouse—You have some objections to make, I believe, Mr. Wotton.

Mr. Wotton—I object to Mr. Stokes appearing in this case if he appears in his private capacity as a member of the firm of Messrs. Sharp, Johnson, and Stokes, on the grounds that as he is a partner of Mr. Johnson, the Crown Solicitor, the Crown Solicitor will be a participator in the profits or remuneration awarded to him for the prosecution. I claim that it is most improper on public grounds that he should appear in a prosecution of this nature, except that he appears on behalf of the Crown. The Crown Solicitor is a participator in any profits awarded to Mr. Stokes, and it may so happen that the defendant may require the services of the Crown Solicitor to prosecute his own witnesses. Such a state of things should not be allowed. There are plenty of other firms ready and willing to undertake the prosecution on behalf of the Straits Insurance Company, and it is far better that the hands of Mr. Johnson should be perfectly free in the matter.

Mr. Stokes—My answer to these objections, your Worship, is that there is no substance in them at all. With reference to the first objection, Mr. Wotton, in his capacity as solicitor for the defendants, has neither the right to make it, or the power to take any steps in the matter. The only parties who could object would be the Crown. Referring to the second objection, in which Mr. Wotton hints at a charge of perjury being brought against the witnesses for the prosecution, such a thing happens frequently, and the Crown Solicitor is often put in such a position as he describes, where, having prosecuted in a charge, he subsequently prosecutes for perjury the witnesses who supported that charge. My acting in this case does not in any way complicate the matter. The position that I take up now, as representing the Straits Insurance, is that I have a perfect right to prosecute, and in the event of a refusal of that right I adjournment, in order to acquaint my clients with your Worship's dec

My Lords regret that they cannot see their way to adopt the suggestion of the Council, which involves a reversal of several important principles of taxation, apart from its purely fiscal results. My Lords have not failed to consider what can be urged from the Colonial point of view; but even if on general grounds they were prepared to proceed in the direction desired by the Council, they would be met by difficulties which appear to them insuperable, and be involved in a loss to the Revenue, which they cannot accept.

That loss would be far from inconsiderable even if the scheme of the Council were adopted in its complete form, but to such complete adoption the gravest obstacles exist.

The measure to which the Council look to compensate the loss resulting from the exemption from duty of estates now liable—the imposition of the duty on estates situate in the country of persons domiciled elsewhere—is one to which my Lords apprehend that the strongest opposition would be raised. Even if it met with approval of every Colonial Legislature as well as of the Imperial Parliament—and my Lords are by no means convinced that this indispensable approval would be readily forthcoming—the change which your Council contemplate could not be effected without the danger of involving the country in very awkward controversies with foreign Governments, as their subjects, and not Colonies only, would be affected by the alteration.

It seems probable, therefore, that the loss which would have to be faced would not merely be that caused by the adoption of the scheme in its entirety, but the much more serious loss caused by the exemption from duty of estates now subject to it, without the compensatory provision which the Council suggest.

This risk is not one which my Lords are prepared to incur, and on a review of all the arguments on both sides, they do not feel able to accept the system recommended by the Council.—I am, Sir, your obedient servant,

W. L. JACKSON.

The Secretary, Royal Colonial Institute, Northumberland Avenue.

HOME RULE AND IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

AN INTERVIEW WITH SIR FREDERICK YOUNG, K.C.M.G., VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE ROYAL COLONIAL INSTITUTE, ETC.

In consequence of a motion which Lord Strathcden and Campbell is to move in the House of Lords, somewhat to the effect that in the opinion of that House it is desirable that further measures should be adopted for promoting the effective union of Great Britain and the colonies, and which motion, we understand, will raise the question of a Royal Commission for the purpose of eliciting the most representative opinion in the various colonies with regard to Imperial Federation, our representative yesterday sought the opinion of Sir Frederick Young, than whom, it will be allowed, no one in this country sees more colonists in the course of a year, or is in a better position to elicit the views held by the majority of colonists visiting this country. The interview will be read with the greatest interest, not only by the thousands of colonists who count Sir Frederick a personal friend, but also by all who can appreciate therefrom the immense and far-reaching effect which Mr. Parnell's new departure has produced.

"Well, Sir Frederick, I need hardly ask one of the fathers of Imperial Federation what he thinks of Lord Stratheden and Campbell's motion, which is up for Monday next; but tell me, how far do you think the time is ripe for a Royal Commission to visit all the important colonies?"

"I thought the time was ripe long ago, and have said so, as you know, in season and out of season, for long enough." Then turning over a file of newspapers, he pointed to an article, under date 19th August, 1887, signed by himself, from which we quote the following:—"This is the proposal which I suggested in a letter to the Times in the month of August, 1886, that a roving Royal Commission should be appointed, on the lines of the famous Durham Commission to Canada in 1837, from which such far-reaching results eventually took place, to go round to the great self-governing colonies and take evidence on the spot of the principal leading politicians of each colony on this question (of Imperial Federation), as to their views of its practicability or otherwise. The evidence thus taken would be afterwards presented to Parliament in the usual way. . . It could scarcely fail to gratify the colonists themselves that an important and distinguished body, acting under her Majesty's commission, should be sent out to them to invite their opinions, and to consult them, as it were, at their own doors, on such a question.

One thing is certain—the question of Imperial Federation, from its very nature, cannot now be suspended, like Mahomet's coffin, "twixt earth and heaven. It must advance or collapse. . . It is rightly submitted that Imperial Federation is impossible without the previous consent and voluntary approval of the colonies themselves. What more rational course, then, could be suggested than thus frankly to take them into counsel?"

"These, then, Sir Frederick, are still your views, I take it, and now at last they are to be brought before the House?"

"Yes, at last; and never has the moment been so psychologically ripe, if I may use that current expression, as it is now that the Parnell-Rhodes correspondence has attracted universal attention to Imperial Federation."

"Your views, then, coincide with those expressed by Mr. Parnell in that correspondence?"

"Precisely, only you put the cart before the horse. Mr. Parnell's views, as recently expressed coincide with my views, as expressed by me twelve years ago, in a work on 'Imperial Federation.'"

"Then you are a Home Ruler, yet you voted against Home Rule."

"Yes, I am a Home Ruler, and was a Home Ruler twelve years ago, but I have not changed. Mr. Parnell has changed, not I. I believed that Mr. Gladstone's bill meant the disintegration of the Empire, whereas I was all for federating the Empire."

"But Mr. Gladstone threw over the objectionable clause, and in the bill, as modified, there was no such risk as you speak of."

"Mr. Parnell was then talking about not taking off his shirt unless, &c., &c. You remember the phrase, and Mr. Parnell thereby indicated as clearly as he could that disintegration was his policy. Mind, I do not say that Mr. Parnell was in earnest in using that phrase; but that he used it. Now, apparently, he has decided that he has sufficiently educated his Irish and American supporters in the paths of constitutional agitation to deem it safe to express such perfectly orthodox views as those he now puts forward without outraging the feelings or the sentiments of his followers. So much the better. His views are travelling over the same track I opened twelve years ago, when I advocated a Parliament for every State in the Empire, even separate Parliaments for England, for Scotland, and for Ireland; with a grand Imperial Parliament for the Federated Empire."

"Then are all our differences at an end, indeed; and we are all of one mind and Home Rulers to wit, henceforth and for ever!"

"So far as one can gather from a common acceptance of views expressed in like terms by all."

"Thank you, Sir Frederick, and I trust that now Home Rule has you for an advocate there will be but one opinion thereon throughout our colonies."

"I have always been an advocate for Home Rule!"

"But you didn't vote for it."

"There, there, I understand. When it comes up again we shall see what we shall see!"

And with that oracular utterance our interview came to an end.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE BEGG DIVORCE CASE.

In the Court of Session, Edinburgh, on the 21st June, the Begg divorce case came up. The following report is from the Scotsman:—

Rachel Isabella Lockhart or Menzies or Begg "now or lately" wife of Dr. Begg, of Hankow, China, presented a petition praying for access to her children. In her statements she narrates the proceedings in Court which resulted in her divorce from her husband. She says that in January last she presented a petition to the Court for reasonable access to her children; but in March that petition was dismissed. Since that date, she avers, it has come to her knowledge that the children have not been properly looked after; but that they, on the contrary, have been carelessly and badly treated by the woman in charge of them. The younger children especially require careful attention and kind and judicious treatment, which has not been given them. She believes that Mr. Begg, senr., has had them removed from the charge of the woman who had charge of them. She says that she suffers greatly from being unable to see her children and to satisfy her natural anxiety concerning them. She has also been greatly pained to learn that her children's minds are being turned against her and that they are being taught to regard her as having no claim whatever to their affection or respect. She humbly submits that the Court may have regard to her natural feeling and anxiety as a mother for the welfare of her children, and that they should allow her a reasonable amount of access and intercourse with them. She founds on the "Guardianship of Infants Act," as entitling her to such access as shall not interfere with the rights of the father. An order for the intimation of the petition was pronounced.

30th June.

Answers have been lodged by Dr. Charles Begg, Hankow, China, and Mr. R. L. Stewart, W.S., his agent, to the petition by the divorced wife of the former for access to her children. They say that the evidence in the divorce case showed that she was very much fonder of company than of her children, and that the latter were left principally to the care of others. The petitioner has twice requested to see the children since they were given up by her; and this request was refused on the express instructions of Dr. Begg, who is convinced that it will be greatly to the detriment of the children to allow the petitioner even a single interview with them. While residing with the petitioner they contracted, it is said, many bad habits, which there has been great difficulty in eradicating, and this difficulty would be increased by allowing the petitioner access to them. It is averred that the petitioner has shown herself to be a person of violent and vindictive temper; that while last in China she attacked Dr. Begg's character to his friends in the most shameless and reckless manner; and that it is probable she might attempt to poison the minds of the children against their father and those relations whom he desires they should visit. The averment that the children had been ill-treated by the woman who had charge of them is denied. They are now at a comfortable boarding school, and are in perfect health. The petition and answers were sent to the roll for discussion.

The case was also before the Outer House on the 30th June. Rachel Isabella Lockhart or Menzies or Begg, now or lately residing at Willowbrae House, Jock's Lodge, Edinburgh, sued Dr. Charles Begg, residing at Hankow, China, for reduction of the decrees obtained by him in his action of divorce against her. She here stated that she had discovered, and now averred, that the judgments, which proceeded entirely upon the oral testimony of four witnesses adduced against her by her husband, were procured by the defender by means of conspiracy and fraud on his part and those acting for him, and by perjury on the part of these witnesses, and by subornation of perjury on the part of defender, and of an agent employed by the defender to procure evidence against her. She averred that the defender knowingly employed his agent to procure decree of divorce against her, irrespective altogether of all questions as to her guilt, by any means in his power, and abundantly supplied him with funds for that purpose. Owing to her absence from this country when the action was served, and the suddenness and secrecy of her husband's actings, the pursuer was placed at great disadvantage in defending the action, and had not the opportunity of making such inquiries into the nature of the testimony adduced against her as would enable her to detect its falsity. It was stated for the defender that the evidence of the witnesses was true. He pleaded that the pursuer's averments were irrelevant and insufficient, and unfounded.

His Lordship, in giving judgment, said that the pursuer's allegations consisted of an attack upon the credibility of five witnesses examined against her. In the first place, she averred that Christina Ramsay Fairbairn gave false evidence, when she said that she had seen the pursuer kiss the man with whom the pursuer was said to have committed infidelity; and that she had seen other familiarities between the parties. The pursuer also averred that such evidence "formed a material part of the evidence adduced by her in the action." The advising of the Judges in the Inner House had not been reported yet, and the Lord Ordinary had no means of knowing what view they took of this girl's evidence. But in so far as regarded his own opinion, this evidence was so little material that he discarded it altogether—not because he did not think the girl a credible witness, but because it was a point in the case which was capable of corroboration, but which was not corroborated; and also because the witness and the pursuer parted upon unfriendly terms. The pursuer next attacked the witness Elizabeth Fairbairn, averring that she spoke falsely when she said that she had been a witness of familiarities between the pursuer and the man. The truth or falsity of evidence was a matter for the Court to judge of. The pursuer, in regard to the part of the case, also made the averment that the two girls gave this false evidence "on the suggestion or at the instigation of a private detective named Alexander Macdonald, who was employed by the defender to concoct and procure evidence against the pursuer." It was also said that he enforced these suggestions by threats against them, alleging that he would jail them if they did not say that the particulars he mentioned were true. There was here a want of due specification of the suggestions which the detective made, or the time or place that he made them; and without such specification the averments were irrelevant. In regard to the matter of subornation, the pursuer charged Frederick Reid and his wife, Mrs. Reid, with giving false evidence, and averred that "the detective also visited these witnesses, and, profiting by their animosity to the pursuer, induced them to give the evidence against her." This vague and general averment was plainly irrelevant. It was complained that the witness Miss Martha Sommerville gave evidence which "was disregarded by the Lord Ordinary and the Court on the ground that a lady friend of the pursuer and the witness had written a letter to Miss Sommerville prior to her examination as a witness, which it was believed affected her evidence." The Lord Ordinary and the Court had a perfect right to disregard her evidence if they thought it was affected by the circumstance stated. It was not correct to say that her evidence was entirely disregarded by the Lord Ordinary and the Court, for the Lord Ordinary, at all events, founded upon Martha Sommerville's evidence as the ground for disregarding that of Christina Ramsay Fairbairn. It was also averred that the "Lord Ordinary and the Court pronounced the divorce sought to be reduced upon the evidence of Donald Fraser, now an innkeeper, and formerly a sergeant of police at Portobello, who deponed that in the summer of 1883—that was from April to August—he saw the pursuer and Mr. Phelps together and alone in suspicious circumstances and at untimely hours at and in the neighbourhood of Portobello. The fact was that the pursuer had never met or seen Mr. Phelps prior to the month of October 1883, and that Mr. Phelps had not been in Portobello until September of that year." Be it so the Court had a perfect right to give what weight they thought was justly due to the evidence of this witness. The Lord Ordinary, who saw him and heard him deliver his evidence, believed him to be an honest man, and in every way a credible witness. This case was, therefore, one that ought to be stopped at the outset. Instead of a final decree of the Court putting an end to strife, it would, if such an action as this were entertained, be, not the ending, but the beginning of strife. He dismissed the action as irrelevant, with expenses.

OLLA PODRIDA.

The omnipresent microbe has been detected in boils. This discovery shows that the method of poulticing is wrong, as the heat and moisture aid the development of the microbe. An antiseptic treatment is best.

An Englishman who was spending his summer holidays in America last year, happening to take up a little book on geography "for the use of schools," saw the following question and answer:—"Where is London?" "It is the chief town of a small island off the coast of France."

He had been fearfully naughty. His mother didn't know what to do with him. She wanted to confine him somewhere, but he showed signs of breaking everything in any room she put him into, and he threatened revenge at every suggestion. She bethought her of a place where there was nothing to break and where he could not wreak any serious revenge. The hencoop. He was borne out into the garden and locked up in the hencoop. He was silent. This was something beyond his capacity to talk back about. But as they were going away his head appeared at one of the little openings.

"Mamma!" His mother stopped. "Mamma! You can look me in here if you like, but I won't lay any eggs!"

Young man: "I cannot understand, sir, why you permit your daughter to sue me for breach of promise; you remember that you were bitterly opposed to our engagement because I wasn't good enough for her, and would disgrace the family." Old man: "Young man, that was sentiment; this is business."

About a year ago a syndicate of New Yorkers set out 1,000 acres of land in Florida as an experiment in growing tobacco. Two kinds of Havana, Sumatra, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Connecticut and the old Florida broad-leaf tobaccos were planted, all of which have grown luxuriantly, and it is expected will average from 600 to 1,000 pounds per acre. There are now only about 3,000 acres in Florida under cultivation for tobacco, but if success shall crown the present experiment a great increase in acreage may be expected in a few years.

"Naomi," he said softly, as they gazed at the moon above them, "isn't the evening beautiful? Do you know, strange fancies throng my mind on a night like this. Every zephyr seems to bear gentle voices, perhaps from the spirit world. Do you hear such voices?"

Silence for a moment.

"I think I do, George."

"What do they sound like to you?"

"They are very indistinct, but they make me think that papa and brother Henry are calling the dog."

The Chinese Minister at a leading European Court was condoling with an eminent Englishman because his wife had gone to England for the education of their children. "You must be very lonely," said he; "but of course you have another wife?" "Ah, no, that would be quite out of the question," said the Englishman. "My religion and the law of my country both forbid it. My wife would be in a rage if I took a second one, and my Government would punish me severely." The Chinese diplomatist was astonished, but he presently said: "You Europeans have so much intercourse with the Chinese that we may hope you will soon become sufficiently civilised to act as we do."

An Important Discovery is announced in the Paris Figaro, "of a valuable remedy for nervous debility, physical exhaustion, and premature decay. The discovery was made by a missionary in Old Mexico; it saved him from a miserable existence and an early grave. We learn that the Rev. Joseph Holmes, Bloomsbury Mansions Bloomsbury Square, London, W.C., will send the prescription, free of charge, on receipt of a self addressed stamped envelope." [37

IMPERIAL QUARTO,

ENGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY,
WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION.
An Anglo-Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong.

For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have of late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each and every word is fully illustrated and explained, forming exercises for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography displays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore characterised Chinese publications.

To illustrate the vast scope of the work the following facts are submitted for consideration:—Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary hitherto published.

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese. In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in China, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasionally.

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

A Large REDUCTION in PRICE is made to Purchasers of SIX or more Copies.

POST-OFFICE NOTICES.

When Correspondence has been mis-sent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addressee need do is to note on the cover, Sent to ———, or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster-General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.

The Postal Guide for 1887, revised to date will be found in the Daily Press Directory, p. 385 large edition, p. 701 small edition. This is the only authorised complete Summary of Postal information published in Hongkong.

☞ The authorised List of Mails issued in connection with this paper is the one published twice each day in our Extra, which is always corrected to a much later hour than that given below.
